

Data Respons acquires EPOS CAT in Germany – strengthening its position within software development and R&D services.

Data Respons ASA has today signed an agreement to acquire 100% of the shares in EPOS CAT GmbH, a German software development and R&D services company with 100 employees headquartered in Ingolstadt. The company is a leading specialist provider to the automotive industry offering advanced computer aided testing (CAT), R&D IT services, software development and systems integration.

- With this acquisition, we continue to expand our footprint in Germany, the largest market in Europe. EPOS CAT is a highly regarded industrial digitalisation specialist to the automotive industry offering a wide range of services including advanced digital measuring and testing solutions assisting the continuous R&D processes, an increasingly important and significant cost and quality assurance factor in vehicle development. Their specialist competence offers great synergies and strengthens Data Respons' position as a complete technology partner for industrial digitalization, smarter embedded and IoT solutions, says Kenneth Ragnvaldsen, CEO of Data Respons.

- Data Respons shares the same value and vision as we have built our company on over the last 17 years. Both companies are developing and implementing innovative technology solutions for the future in close collaboration with our customers. Joining forces with Data Respons will enable us to capitalize on our knowledge and expand into new industries and geo-markets, says Günter See, Managing Director of EPOS CAT.

- I am very pleased to welcome EPOS CAT to the Data Respons family. They have 100 specialists, which will contribute and strengthen the core asset of our company – competent people. I am confident that we jointly can take on large ground breaking technology projects and create highly valuable smarter digital solutions for our customers, concludes Kenneth Ragnvaldsen.
